Goal: Illustrate the growth of the Hispanic/Latino population in United States from 2000 to 2013.

Objective: After visualizing this graphic viewer will be able to list the total numbers of Hispanic/Latino population in U.S. by years and also be able to make growth comparison analyses.

The U.S. Census Bureau regularly produces reports to illustrate different aspects of the population. On March 2011, U.S. Census Bureau released the brief Overview of Race and Hispanic Origin: 2010 which analyses demographical changes regarding the Hispanic/Latino population in U.S. Data for this analysis was retrieved from U.S. Census 2010. The graphic above combines data from the U.S. Census 2010 and the U.S. Census racial brief mentioned above.

As stated by Humes, Jones, & Ramirez (2011) "In 2010, there were 50.5 million Hispanics in the United States, composing 16 percent of the total population (see Table 1). Between 2000 and 2010, the Hispanic population grew by 43 percent—rising from 35.3 million in 2000, when this group made up 13 percent of the total population. The Hispanic population increased by 15.2 million between 2000 and 2010, accounting for over half of the 27.3 million increase in the total population of the United States."

The American Library Association – ALA released in October 2006 the study "Diversity Counts" in which an analyses of the job market within the library sphere in order to analyze how minorities have been included and absorbed by the job market. Data for this study was retrieved from the U.S. Census 1990 and 2000, and it covers gender, race, age, and disability aspects.

The intention of such study is to raise awareness towards the need to promote and support minority groups within the library job market, incentivizing the hiring of such individuals. ALA has been a great minority group's advocate.
